

Mark Beverley General Manager: Service Delivery

Mark began his IT career at First National Bank (then Barclays Bank) in 1985. He has therefore over 17 years experience in the IT industry. After working in an operations environment for many years, he moved into the Business Continuity fields in 1995.

He worked for First National Bank IT division operating ICL mainframe equipment for the bank. In 1986 he moved to an IBM architected environment at Info plan in an operational and supervisory role. Mark moved to Samcor, a vehicle manufacturer as an operations team leader in 1989. He rejoined First National Bank in 1990 and remained with them until First Recovery was bought from FNB by MGX. Mark assumed the Technical Manager role for First Recovery in 1998.

During his career he has obtained vast experience in facilities and data centre management. Mark's duties also required him to perform pre sales and sales activities. He was involved in the operational aspects of mergers, transitions, and many organizational changes through which he maintained high client service levels throughout.

Continuity
i-B